Grapevine, TX – AeroVents.com has been selected to manage and redesign the web site and assimilate the events for the North Texas Association of Aviation Museums. NOTAAM was established in 1998 by 10 of the Dallas Fort Worth area aviation museums and sponsored by the Convention and Visitors Bureaus of the respective communities.

The members and associated groups of NOTAAM are dedicated to the preservation of the rich aviation history of North Texas. Their goal is to educate the general public through, displays, workshops, events, restorations and other activities about the impact of Texas and Texans on the development of aviation and space exploration. Members also offer programs to assist learning and career development through aviation related experiences.

AeroVents.com began in 2000 with a mission to 'spread the word' about aeronautical events to the aviation enthusiast and professional, as well as to the general public. The all-inclusive site lists a vast array of events from conventions, space launches, seminars, ballooning, skydiving, educational programs, plane pulls, open houses, air shows, fly-ins, model rocketry, model aircraft, and anything in between. Last year included the introduction of Webcast and TV listings. In addition, other new features introduced were instant weather access to for the event and the ability to easily obtain airport information.

AeroVents.com is located in Grapevine, Texas with an office at Meacham International Airport, KFTW, in Fort Worth. The company specializes in data processing solutions for aviation related companies. For additional information visit their Web site at www.AeroVents.com or call 817-571-5987.
